Autism liscense plates

I was looking through the plates I could get for my car here, and I was surprised not to see an autism one. I wonder how you could get one? It seems like it'd be a good way to raise some money for the cause

Believe it or not, it proved to be difficult (impossible?) to get the 250 people necessary to get it pushed through and make the plate available to everyone. We had to have 250 (I think that's the right number) people reserve a license plate in order to have them made available. I'm not sure we even got close.

wow...that is surprising. There are some obscure causes that have plates, that's weird. How long ago did yall try?

Our last attempt was last year. You are able to make a donation to the Autism Society and receive a car tag holder, if you would like. We'll try again in a year or so!
